Politicians strike clean air deal

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Senate leaders and President Bush compromised Thursday on future air pollution controls for automobiles, factories and electric power plants, enhancing chances that a clean air bill will pass this year.

The agreement, made after more than three weeks of closed-door negotiations, was viewed as a middle ground likely to attract enough support to thwart continuing regional opposition in the looming Senate debate.

Majority Leader George Mitchell, of Maine, called the compromise a "round and comprehensive" agreement that will substantially improve air quality over the next decade. He planned to bring up the legislation to the Senate floor on Monday.

"President Bush is extraordinarily pleased with the agreement. It is a milestone, an enormous step forward," said Roger Porter, the president's chief domestic policy adviser.

Porter said the administration would attempt to expedite Senate passage and seek a similar agreement in the House, where clean-air legislation remains in committee.

But the compromise is still likely to encounter stiff industry lobbying, largely because of its estimated $20 billion to $40 billion annual cost to the economy.

Some senators also have expressed concern that the bargaining weakened provisions in the original Senate bill that would have required stronger automobile emission controls to combat urban smog.

Other have voiced continued concern about the impact of acid rain controls.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., the minority leader, called the compromise "a giant step forward" in revising federal air pollution laws for the first time in 13 years. But he cautioned that many senators likely will seek changes when the measure goes to the Senate floor.

He urged Mitchell "not to handcuff anyone" during the floor action by rushing to cut off debate.

The agreement made some accommodations to regional interests, especially those concerned about the local economic cost of acid rain controls.

On that score, the compromise continues to require a 10 million ton annual reduction of sulfur dioxide emissions, but allows Midwest utilities to achieve special credits that could be sold to other utilities to recoup some of the costs.

Plants that use new technology — instead of switching away from high-sulfur coal to another fuel — would receive additional credits for early cuts in emissions, a provision designed to help West Virginia's coal industry.

About a dozen senators from the Midwest had threatened to filibuster the legislation if accommodations were not made to ease their concerns about the high costs of the pollution controls.

Mitchell said he still could not discount the threat of a filibuster, but various Senate sources suggested that with the compromise, Mitchell likely would have enough votes to halt debate.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., said he would seek additional changes to the bill. But "I'm not going to engage in any filibuster," he said.

Bus strike deadline nears for Greyhound

Company works to ensure that passengers won't be stranded if drivers walk out

Associated Press

DALLAS — Negotiators trying to avoid a nationwide strike by 6,300 Greyhound bus drivers are millions of dollars apart Thursday, as a midnight deadline loomed.

The company worked to ensure no passengers could be stranded by a walkout, but the union questioned Greyhound Lines Inc.'s willingness to reach a settlement.

"We are more concerned than ever that Greyhound management is simply not prepared to negotiate in good faith, that they are not interested in obtaining a fair and equitable contract," said Jeffrey Nelson, spokesman for the Amalgamated Council Greyhound Local Unions.

Greyhound Executive Vice President P. Anthony Lannie, who is heading the company's negotiating committee, said, "The company has acted in good faith throughout the four months of bargaining and has always assumed the union was acting in good faith, too."

Last month the union rejected the company's initial offer by a 91.9 percent vote. The 3-year-old company, which is a successor to the Phoenix-based Greyhound Corp. and which earned its first profit last year, says it cannot afford to increase its offer.

Greyhound says it serves 9,500 U.S. communities, and is the only public intercity transportation in about 9,000.

The union, which represents 6,300 drivers and 3,075 of the company's office and maintenance workers, has set a strike for 12:01 a.m. Friday local time, one minute after the three-year pact expires.

Nelson said working drivers would continue to their next stop, then join picket lines.

Greyhound spokeswoman Elizabeth Hale said the company advised passengers this week of the possibility of a strike, and worked to reduce the number of buses on the road at midnight.

"We'll do our best to get that person to their final destination and take care of his or her needs in the interim," Ms. Hale said.

Representatives from both sides have been in Scottsdale, Ariz., since Feb. 16. Full-scale negotiations ceased last week, but subcommittees resumed discussions Sunday and continued Thursday. Drivers' wages were the main unresolved issue, with the company offering a 6.9 percent first-year increase and 13.5 percent during the three-year contract.

H. Reese Hansen named dean of BYU law school

By PAISLEY P. MILLER
Universe Staff Writer

H. Reese Hansen was named dean of the J. Reuben Clark Law School on Thursday.

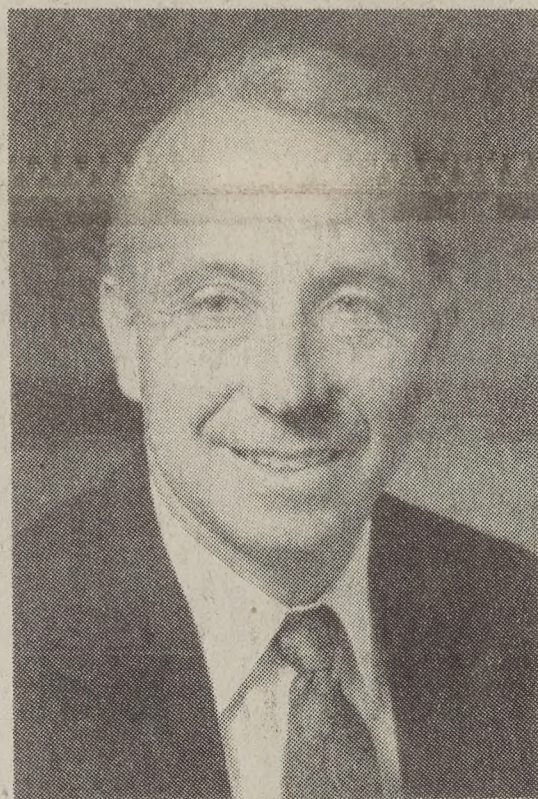

Hansen, who has been acting dean since former dean Bruce C. Hafen was named provost of BYU in July, was selected by a committee organized for that purpose.

President Rex E. Lee said, "After going through the search process, what was already apparent to many became apparent to all — H. Reese Hansen is the obvious choice for dean of the law school."

"He has served well as associate dean and acting dean, and we are pleased that he now has accepted the full deanship. If I say so myself, he carries on a fine tradition."

Hansen is a native of Newton, Cache County, and is a graduate of Utah State University.

He earned his law degree from the University of Utah, and has been a member of the BYU faculty since 1974.

H. REESE HANSEN

Hansen has practiced law in Salt Lake City and serves on several committees in professional, government and scholastic organizations.

Elder Packer to speak at 18-Stake Fireside

Elder Boyd K. Packer, a member of the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will speak at an 18-stake Fireside Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Marriott Center.

His topic is "The Edge of the Night." Elder Packer was called to serve in his current position in April 1970 after serving as an assistant to the Twelve since 1961. His LDS Church assignments have been tied to youth and family. He also served as president of the New England Mission.

His professional career includes service as supervisor of Seminaries and Institutes of Religion for the LDS Church and being a member of the Administrative Council of BYU. He is a member of the Board of Education of the LDS Church and the Board of Trustees of BYU.

KBYU-TV, channel 11, will rebroadcast the Fireside March 11 at 6 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

State industries to be privatized in East Germany

Associated Press

EAST BERLIN — East Germany took the first step Thursday toward privatizing state industries but set conditions that prevent a wholesale sell-off of major assets, apparently to prevent a buyout by West Germans.

The Foreign Ministry also called on West Germany to start talks to coordinate a common German position to present at the "two-plus-four" conference later this year to steer a course for unification.

A ministry statement, carried by the East German news agency ADN, said East Germany recommends that the Germans' neighbor states should be invited to take part in the talks, although without specifying in what capacity. As of now, other participants in the talks will be the World War II allies: the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

Poland has been asking to participate. It is worried by West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl's refusal to give unconditional guarantees that a united Germany would not claim territory ceded to Poland at the end of World War II.

In another political development, the parliament said Thursday that 35 political parties have registered to run candidates in the March 18 elections, although no candidate lists have been made public yet.

—According to an announcement by the East German parliament.

tions, although no candidate lists have been made public yet.

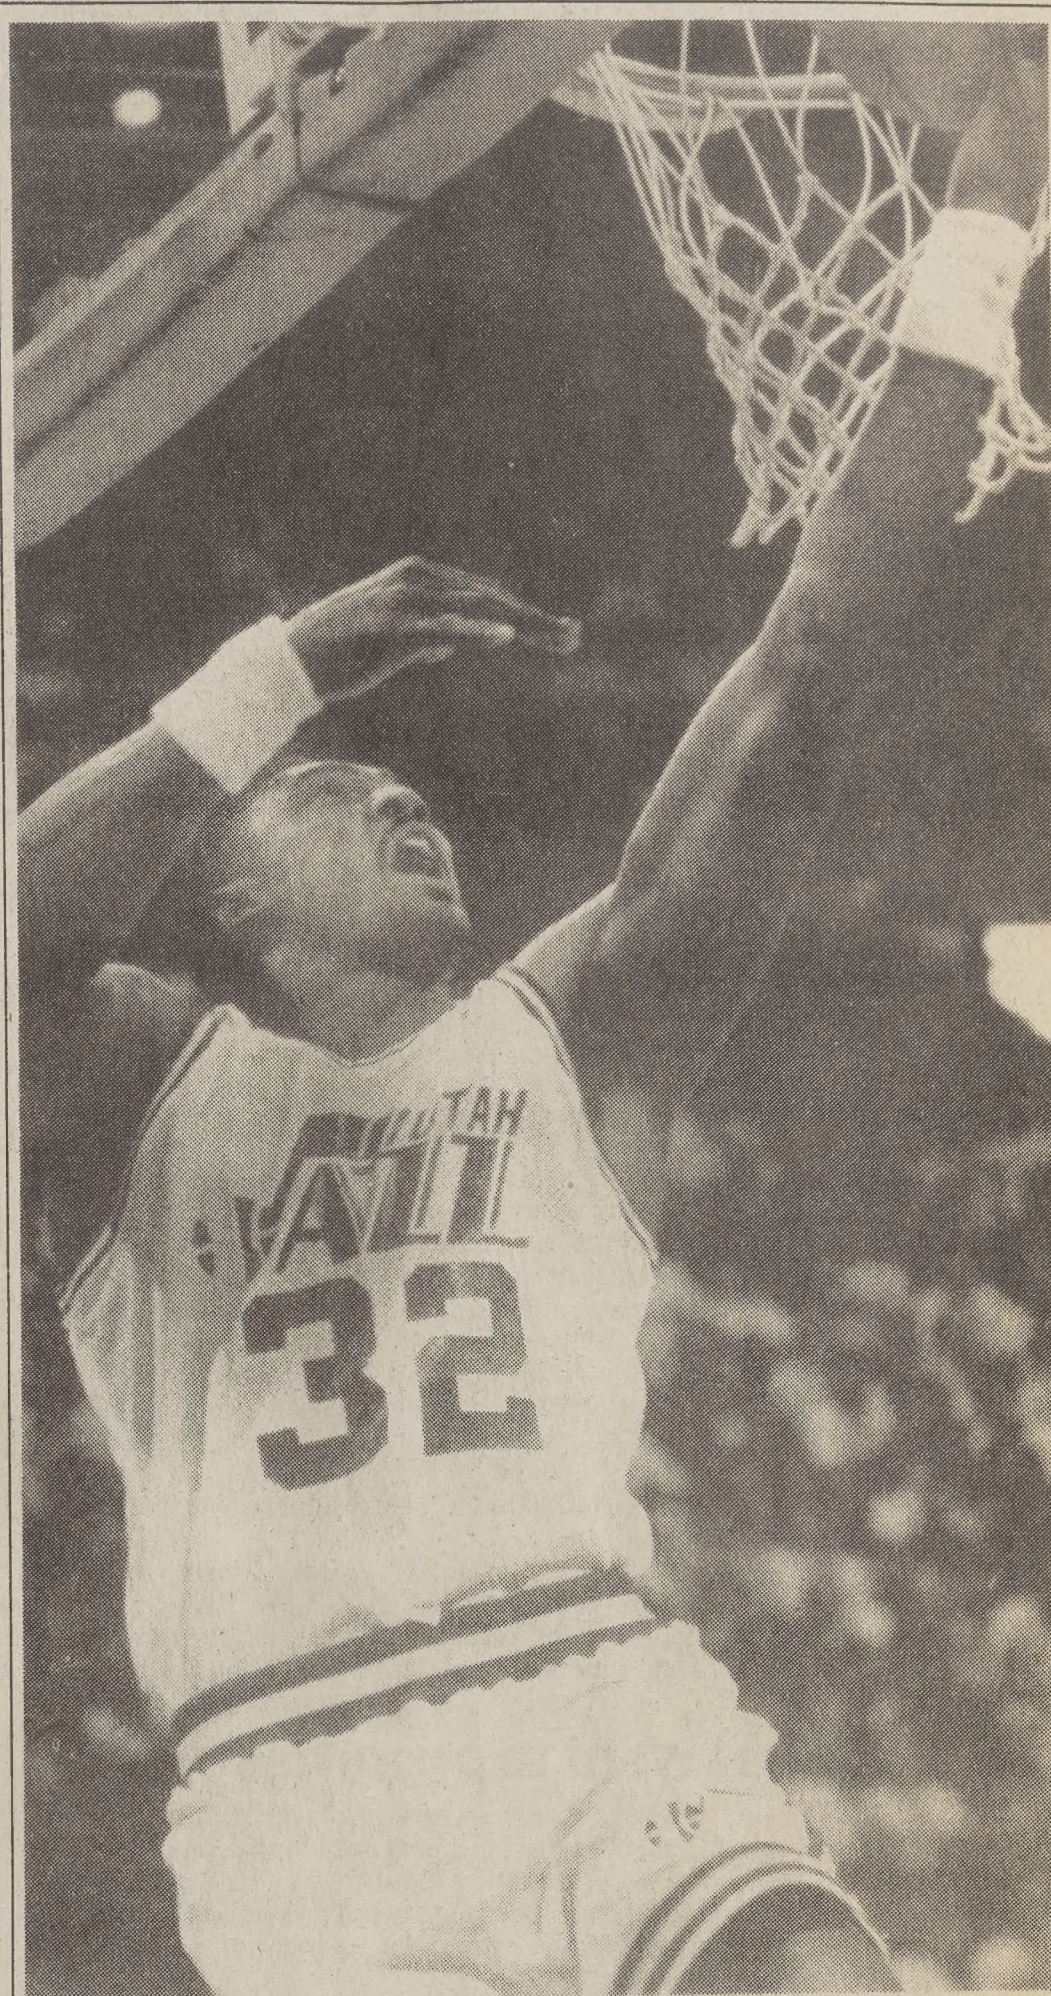

According to plans set out Thursday by the interim government of Communist Premier Hans Modrow, massive factories run by the state are to be offered to East German investors on March 15, although land and fixed assets will be prohibited from outright sale to foreign buyers.

The Communist-led government has repeatedly expressed its fear of being bought out by the wealthy West Germans.

The conversion to a more Western style of industrial management is set to begin only three days before the elections, and the parliament to be seated by that vote could choose to revise the plans. The privatization plan addresses some of the concerns of West Germans seeking to merge the two economies, although it stops short of the full-scale conversion to market principles sought by West German industrialists.

The assets to remain in public ownership would be under control of the parliament, which could make exceptions to the sales restrictions, said Wolfgang Krause, economic reform commissioner.

Other details of the conversion remained to be settled by the newly elected government, Krause said.

New national park proposed for land in Emery County

By DAVID J. HIGGINBOTHAM
Universe Staff Writer

A statewide environmental group has proposed establishing a national park in San Rafael.

The park would be the sixth national park in Utah and would encompass 300,000 acres in southeastern Utah.

"We've sent our proposal, which outlines our suggestions, and a letter to the director of the National Park Service, the governor, Utah's congressional delegation and the leaders of Emery County in which San Rafael Park would be located," said George Nickas, assistant coordinator for Utah Wilderness Association.

According to the association's written proposal, "The San Rafael Swell and Reef are premier candidates for both national park and wilderness status."

The proposed park harbors over a dozen plants that are proposed or formally listed as threatened or endangered along with Utah's largest desert bighorn sheep herds.

Nickas said hopes for the new park were brightened when James Rideour, director of the National Park Service, expressed the desire to investigate the possibility of establishing five to 10 new national parks.

"In laying out his management objectives for the nation's parks, President Bush listed as a priority the authorization of nationally significant new parks," Nickas said.

According to a report on the San Rafael park issued by Utah State University's College of Natural Resources, "San Rafael possesses a natural endowment superior to many of the better known national parks in Utah."

Nickas said the association has suggested the areas of Sids Mountain, Mexican Mountain, San Rafael Reef, Crack Canyon and Muddy Creek be designated as wilderness to be included within the park.

According to the proposal, the area is accessible by Interstate 70 as well as three state highways (10, 6 and 24). Highway 24 is a major route through southern and central Utah that connects with numerous attractions such as Canyonlands, Bryce Canyon and Capital Reef National Parks.

Ben Moffett, a regional public affairs officer for the National Park Service in Denver, Colo., said a tentative study was conducted in 1979 of San Rafael. He noted the area had significant national value. Moffett said the study team concluded that the San Rafael park was considered "worthy" of national recognition.

Deputy sheriff's testimony tells of fingerprints, blood

By K. MICHAEL GOODMAN

Michael Anthony Archuleta, who was convicted in the murder of Gordon Ray Church, followed the advice of his counselors and chose not to testify Thursday in the 4th District Court trial of Lance Wood, who is charged in the same killing.

Judge Boyd K. Park told the jury not to draw any conclusions about Archuleta's refusal to testify.

In the fifth day of the Wood trial, five representatives of the Millard County Sheriff's Office testified regarding evidence gathered.

Millard County Deputy Sheriff James Masner said he found 19 fingerprints on the car of the murder victim.

He said two of the fingerprints were identified as being those of Lance Wood. Masner described the process of retrieving and identifying fingerprints and palmprints.

Masner said the object is first dusted with black graphite powder which attaches itself to the oils of the print. Then a special tape is placed over the area of the print, lifted off the object and placed on a white card to reveal the print.

Masner said he enlarged the prints taken from Church's car five times and compared them with a set of Wood's prints which had also been enlarged five times. He said the prints were found to have eight similarities and no dissimilarities.

Earlier in his testimony, Masner described other evidence of the murder on the car and at the site of the murder.

Masner said blood identified as Church's was found splattered on the car and in the trunk.

At the site, blood was also found splattered in an 11-foot radius and up to 4 inches deep in the dirt, he said.

Other evidence found at the site includes bone fragments, body matter and hair.

Masner said every time evidence was found, a photograph was taken and then the evidence was placed in a clear plastic bag.

Sheriff's Captain Bob Dekker, supervisor of the investigation, said a gag was in the victim's mouth when his body was found. Tire chains connected with a bungee cord were also found on the body, Dakker said.

Quake damages assessed in S. California

UPLAND, Calif. — Small cities counted the cost of broken windows and fallen bricks as dozens of aftershocks continued to rattle the region Thursday, the day after a strong earthquake jolted much of Southern California.

The town of Pomona alone suffered at least $20 million in damages, officials said.

Safety inspectors in Los Angeles and neighboring San Bernardino counties, which nestle against the San Gabriel and San Bernardino mountains, began checking gas and water lines along with older, unreinforced brick and masonry buildings.

Wednesday's 3:43 p.m. quake measured 5.5 on the Richter scale and was centered three miles northwest of Upland, 40 miles east of Los Angeles.

It was the most serious tremor to hit California since October's magnitude-7.1 quake in the San Francisco Bay area, which killed 67 people and sparked fears of the massive earthquake predicted for the state in coming years.

Dozens of aftershocks continued to shake Southern California on Thursday, with the day's strongest, magnitude 3.0, at 12:55 p.m.

"We just had a nice little aftershock," Claremont Assistant City Manager Bridget Distelrath said. "We just get big eyes. They're very short. They don't last long enough to get under a table."

Plant OK'd despite 20 years of protests

ROCKVILLE, Md. — The Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant won federal permission Thursday to produce commercial electricity after two decades of protests and legal struggles that made it a symbol of the national anti-nuclear movement.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission voted 3-0 to grant a license for Seabrook to operate at full power but delayed issuing it for two weeks to allow an expected appeal in federal court.

Two of the commission's five members abstained from the vote because of involvement in Seabrook issues prior to becoming commissioners.

Opponents have long maintained that people near the plant would be trapped in a nuclear emergency, and officials in Massachusetts, with a border just two miles from Seabrook, said they would indeed take the case to a federal court. Foes also claimed a broader victory, contending that as a result of the long fight, no utility would be willing to risk the monetary and other costs of trying build and open another nuclear plant.

Young Nicaraguan soldiers deserting

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Young soldiers have begun to desert from the Sandinista armed forces as the deadline nears for President Daniel Ortega to step down from office, draftees and draftees' relatives said Thursday.

Ortega was defeated in Sunday's election by Violeta Barrios de Chamorro, who has promised to abolish the draft after she is inaugurated on April 25. Some deserters are apparently planning to hide out until that happens.

Her office announced meanwhile Thursday that the president-elect will send a special mission to the United States next week to seek economic aid for Nicaragua, ravaged through the years by economic mismanagement and U.S.-imposed sanctions.

It said Francisco Mayorga, 41, who has done postgraduate work at Yale, will head the mission.

Mayorga has often been mentioned as possible minister of economy after Mrs. Chamorro takes office for a six-year term.

Mayorga said his team will visit Washington and New York for talks with World Bank, Inter-American Development Bank and International Monetary Fund officials.

Record number went to prison last year

SALT LAKE CITY — Utah State Prison experienced record growth in its inmate population during 1989 as 449 new prisoners forced officials to house the overflow in outdated facilities, a state official said.

"This number represents a growth in the institution's population that far outstrips any previous year," said Dave Franchina, deputy director of the Department of Corrections.

He said the only previous year when the prison at Point of the Mountain approached that level of growth was 1986 with 196 new inmates. The current inmate population is 2,467.

The prison has been forced to open makeshift dormitories in program areas and in areas that had been closed for lack of legislative funding or because they were outdated, he said.

Franchina said that although the prison expects relief from completion in July of a prison in Gunnison, the Legislature did not provide funds for opening the facility until October.

One American killed in Cairo hotel fire

CAIRO, Egypt — Fire broke out in a luxury hotel's tent restaurant early Thursday, and wind-whipped flames leaped to the main building, killing 16 people and injuring about 70. At least one American was among the dead.

Frantic guests at the six-story Heliopolis Sheraton jumped out windows and clambered down bedsheets that were tied together. Many of the injuries were broken bones suffered in falls.

U.S. Embassy spokeswoman Marcelle Wahba said one American was killed, but she refused to release any information on the victim.

The blaze broke out at 1 a.m. and burned for nine hours. The hotel, northeast of Cairo, had no fire alarms or sprinklers.

Tourism Minister Fuad Sultan said the blaze started accidentally in the Nubian Tent restaurant, a cotton canvas tent attached to one of the three blocks of the T-shaped hotel. Winds of nearly 25 mph fed the flames, which destroyed much of the 630-room hotel. There were about 1,000 guests and 300 employees in the hotel at the time of the fire.

Andy Rooney returns to CBS, 60 minutes

Associated Press

NEW YORK — There may be more than a few minutes with Andy Rooney on "60 Minutes" this Sunday. After CBS on Thursday lifted his suspension early, he said he'll do a commentary on the matter during Sunday's broadcast.

"I'm very pleased," he added after CBS News president David Burke, who on Feb. 8 suspended him for three months without pay, reinstated Rooney, effective immediately.

Although Burke never specifically said why he suspended Rooney, his action came after The Advocate, a gay magazine, quoted Rooney as saying blacks had "watered down their genes." Rooney denied saying that.

On Thursday, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said it "believed he was misquoted," didn't object to his return to work and considered the matter closed. NAACP spokesman James Williams said, Rooney also had drawn fire from gays for a Dec. 28 CBS special in which he cited "homosexual unions" as among things that cause "self-induced" death, and for a letter to The Advocate.

The letter, which ran in the same issue as the remark attributed to him about blacks, said he found male homosexual acts "repugnant."

The 71-year-old humorist, who has worked both in news and entertainment at CBS for more than 40 years, praised Burke for lifting his suspension and said "it was a very difficult thing" for him to decide.

Don Hewitt, executive producer of "60 Minutes," also hailed Burke's action. "I think we're very lucky to have as the head of CBS News someone with a real sense of difference between what's right and what's expedient, and a real sense of when to take action and when to close it down," Hewitt said.

Rooney, whose humorous commentary has been a regular show-ending "60 Minutes" feature since 1978, was philosophical when asked if he were bitter about his suspension.

"Well, we all get the bittersweet in our lives," he said, adding that he likes a quotation attributed to ABC News anchor Sam Donaldson: "Only the amateurs stay mad."

In a statement, the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation did not directly criticize Rooney's early reinstatement, but complained that he "has yet to make amends with the gay and lesbian community regarding the series of homophobic comments he made in the last few months."

The New York-based group said it hopes to find "a new sensitivity to these issues" in his Sunday commentary.

Burke, in a statement announcing Rooney's return to work, did not say why he had lifted the suspension early. After the two met last week, there were reports that Rooney would be back perhaps as early as this Sunday.

Pioneers in SLC fled to Provo during Utah War

By STEVE TANNER
Universe Staff Writer

Provo was the center of the migration of the members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints during the Utah War of 1857-58, said a former BYU professor Wednesday at the monthly meeting of the Springville Historical Society.

Dr. Richard Poll, former professor of history at BYU, said approximately 30,000 Latter-day Saints fled south of the Point of the Mountain during the "unnecessary and in some respects, comical and very near tragic" Utah War.

The war started when U.S. President James Buchanan sent federal troops to replace Brigham Young as the governor of the Utah Territory.

Since the saints, "couldn't lick them (the army) or live with them they decided to get the heck out of there," Poll said.

There was only about 40,000 people living in the Utah Territory before the migration, he said.

The Church members were instructed to move south of the Point of the Mountain, Poll said.

"Anyone who was someone" settled in Provo, which became headquarters for the Church, he said.

However, some went as far south as Parowan and Sanpete County, Poll said.

The war wouldn't have occurred if there had been a transcontinental telegraph or telephone, Poll said.

Officials in Washington D.C. were unable to review the situation before launching the biggest military operation conducted between the Mexican and Civil wars, he said.

If Buchanan had been able to talk to Young he would have found Young willing to accept the new governor, Poll said.

He said Young was credited with saying, "I said if they would give us 10 years I would have no odds with them (the federal government), and we have no odds with them."

However, Buchanan received reports from former federal officials which indicated the saints would not allow a new governor to take office, Poll said.

The Republican Party was also accusing the Democrats of being soft on members of the Church, Poll said.

BYU tennis team drops 1st-round match in tourney

By MEGAN E. OGILVIE
Universe Sports Writer

BYU's 14th-ranked women's tennis team lost in the first round of the Women's National Indoor Collegiate Team Tennis Championship Thursday in Madison, Wis.

In the first round of dual matches, where teams play a series of nine games — six singles and three doubles matches, BYU lost to 7th-ranked California-Berkeley 5-2.

Ellen Larsen, Women's Sports Information Director, said most teams take the option of calling the match once the victory is clinched with five wins.

BYU's only ranked player, Mary Beth Young, lost to 19th-ranked Lisa Albano 6-3, 7-6, (7-4).

BYU's Kim Chang won in the No. 6 singles match beating Lisa Parks 7-6, (7-3), 7-6, (7-3). In No. 1 doubles play, Young and Monika Koblikova beat California's Albano and Jean-Marie Lozano 7-5, 3-0.

California assured the victory during singles play and retired the match during the doubles.

BYU will play 11th-ranked Indiana today in the first consolation round. Finals for consolation and the main draw will be played Sunday, the winner of the main draw "assuming the No. 1 position in the Volvo Tennis/Collegiate Rankings," according to Volvo press releases.

CSU edges Cougar basketball team 59-57

By STEPHEN MOFFITT
Sports Editor

FT. COLLINS, Colo.—BYU's surprising 21-game winning season came to a dramatic end Thursday night in Colorado State's Moby Arena where CSU downed BYU 59-57.

BYU is now 21-7 overall and 11-5 in the WAC. BYU also has a share of the WAC title. BYU will have to share that title two, three or four ways depending on Saturday's games.

CSU is now 20-7 overall and 10-5 in the WAC. CSU plays San Diego State in Ft. Collins Saturday.

The game was close the whole way, but when the Cougars needed to perform down the stretch, they came up short.

With 2:40 left in the game, BYU held a 54-53 advantage. From there the Rams went on a 6-3 run that shredded BYU's hopes of winning the conference crown outright.

The coaches and players of both teams agreed CSU's play down the stretch was the difference. "We missed some defensive assignments which hurt us down the stretch," Andy Toolson said. "(CSU's) Mike Mitchell played tough down the wire," BYU coach Roger Reid said.

"About the only time we were ahead was at the end," CSU's coach Boyd Grant said.

BYU was not without a chance to win down the stretch though.

With 1:21 left in the game, Marty Haws drove the baseline and put in a leaping, leaning one-handed lay up. Haws was fouled on the play and sank his free throw to put the Cougars up 57-54. After Haws' shot, Mitchell single-handedly stole the game from the Cougars. "Mitchell made some big, big plays," Reid said.

His biggest of the night, though, came after he scored to make it 57-56 for BYU with 1:08 left in the game.

Mitchell stole Haws' bounce pass to Kevin Santiago and fed Mark

Meredith who was streaking down the court. Meredith made the lay up and was fouled by Santiago.

Meredith made his free throw to make the score 59-57 for CSU with 26 seconds left in the game. "I knew after Mitchell scored (to make it 57-56) if we didn't make anything happen you could give the game to BYU," Grant said.

BYU still had a chance to tie or win the game after Meredith's free throw. But Toolson's 3-point shot with nine seconds left fell short. "That's the shot we wanted. We wanted the first good shot. I wanted Andy to go right up but he hesitated," Reid said.

Still, BYU had another chance to win or tie the game. BYU fouled Mitchell and he missed his free throw with seven seconds left. BYU got the rebound and gave the ball to Haws. Haws took the ball right to the hoop but as he was going for the shot, the ball squirted loose. Mark Durrant picked up the loose ball and fired a shot that hit the front of the rim at the buzzer.

"It was a great game, a championship game," Grant said. "BYU has a smart, tough team. It's a great victory. Our kids really wanted to win."

One no-call by the refs that could have cost BYU the game came with 14:30 left in the second half when Durrant's lay up was clearly goal tended.

"No comment," Reid said. "But next year we'll have a 7' 5" center and I hope they call them the same way next year."

The Ball State University men's volleyball team defeated BYU, 4-1, in the Smith Fieldhouse Thursday night in the second meeting for the two teams this season.

The Cardinals, who have been ranked in the top 10 all year, won the match 15-8, 14-16, 15-10, 15-10, over a BYU team plagued with hitting errors.

BYU coach Carl McGown said, "The major problem we've had all season is we make a huge number of hitting errors." The Cougars had 40 errors and a hitting percentage of .124 in the match.

"It's frustrating, not just for the coaches but for the players too," said McGown.

BSU All-American Chris Beerman, who hit a .379 last season, was shut down by BYU's front line. He hit a .078 for the evening.

In the first game, BYU took a short-lived 3-0 lead before handing the game to the Cardinals who scored the next 13 points. The Cougars made a run at the end of the game to finish at 15-8.

In the second game, Colin House came off the bench and immediately had a solo block on Stephan Stamato. The lead switched back and forth eight times as BYU's Gunnar Lindstoel and David Johnston began to find the mark. With BYU down 12-14, the Cougars held off game point four times and scored four more points to win, 16-14.

BYU had few highlights in the fourth game as BSU took a 13-5 lead. Ross Burningham came off the bench and had three solo blocks on Stamato. The Cougars made another run before losing 15-10.

BYU assistant coach Rich Cortez said, "The bright side is that we played a heck of a lot better than last time. We could beat these teams. We just need to stop making dumb errors."

Provo science fiction writer has novel nominated for honor

By PAT BIRKEDAH
Senior Reporter

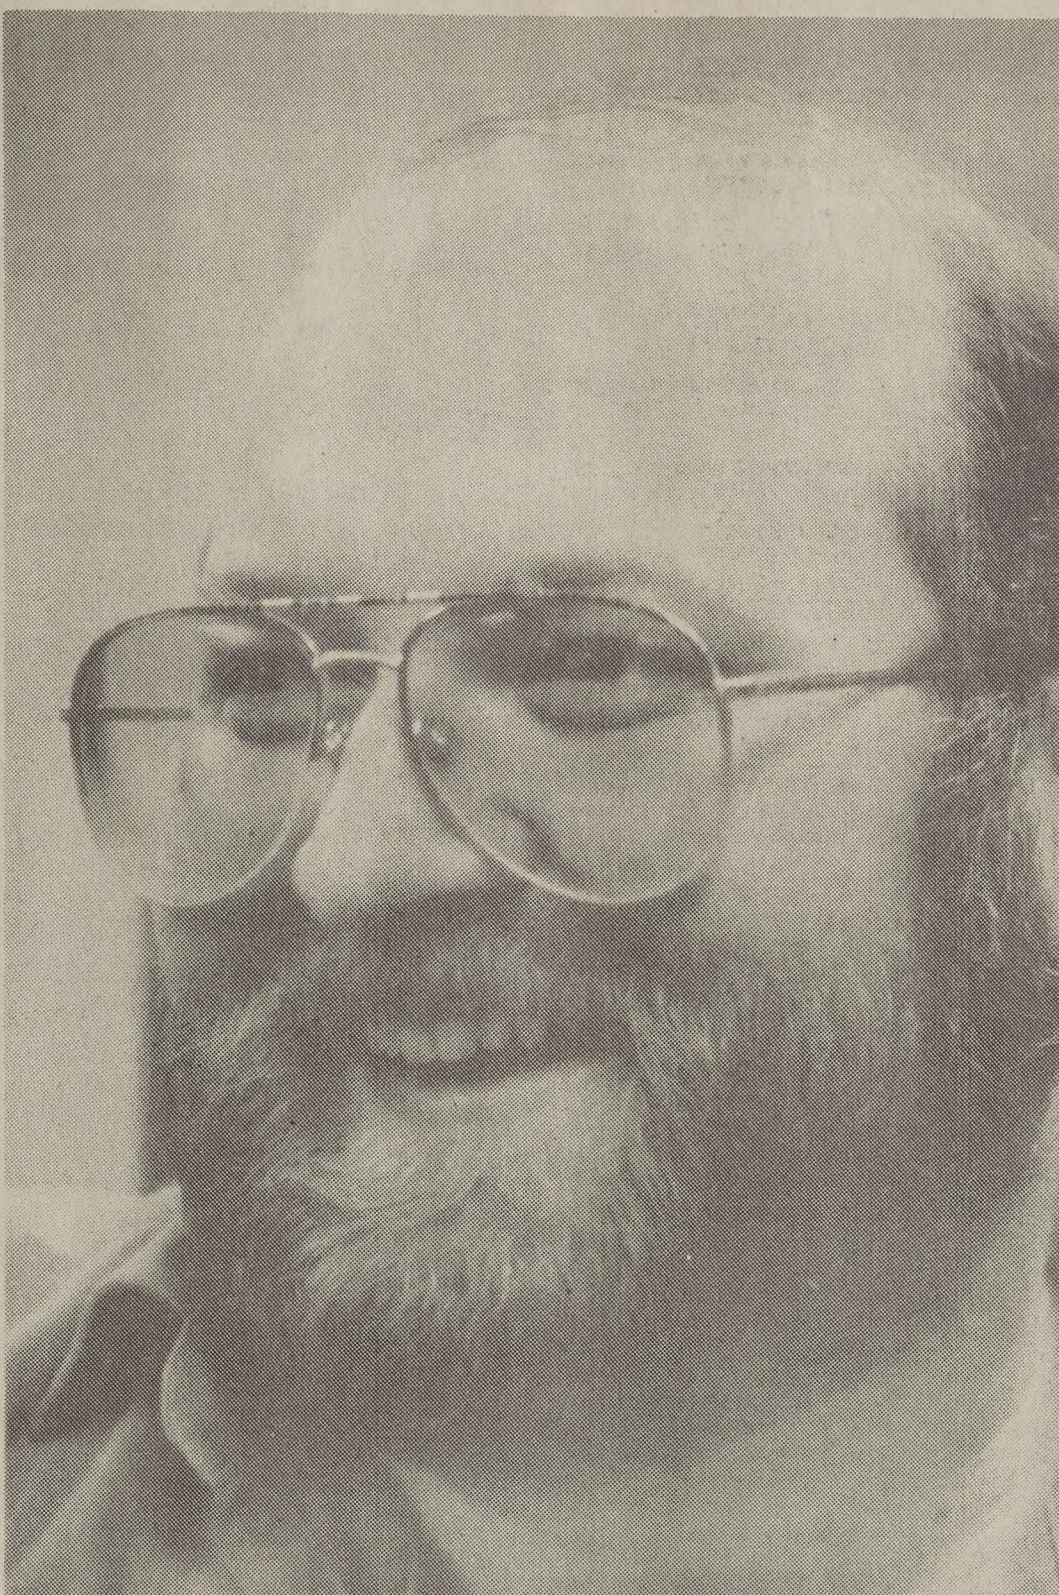

A Provo writer's first novel has been nominated for one of science fiction's highest honors.

Dave Wolverton's book "On My Way to Paradise" is one of six books nominated for the Philip K. Dick Award for the best original science fiction paperback book of 1989.

Wolverton said the award is prestigious in the science fiction community because all original science fiction paperbacks are considered for the award. Approximately 450 new science fiction books are released each year. Other nominations for the award are "Being Alien" by Rebecca Ore, Richard Russo's "Subterranean Gallery," J. Luceno's "Fearful Symmetry," Barry B. Longyear's "Infinity Hold" and Susan Schwartz's "Heritage of Flight in the Singularity."

The novel's protagonist commits an act of kindness leading to a chain of violent events that irreconcilably change his world. The three settings of the novel are a Latin America of the future, a starship of mercenaries and a planet where two Japanese factions are embroiled in a genocidal conflict. Wolverton studied creative writing at BYU, where he majored in English. He is now a writer for a computer networking corporation in Provo. "On My Way to Paradise" began as a short story. The story won first place in the annual L. Ron Hubbard Writers of the Future Contest for 1986. The short story is printed in the anthology "Writers of the Future Volume III."

The novel was released as an original Bantam paperback in December 1989. The initial printing was 75,000 volumes. Wolverton said his editor at Bantam, who called him Thursday to tell him his book was a finalist for the Philip K. Dick Award, said the book would be going into a second printing soon.

With his first novel being nominated for a national science fiction award, Dave Wolverton is all smiles. Wolverton studied creative writing while he was majoring in English at BYU.

Businesses need licenses to operate, city officials say

By BROCK STOUT
Universe Staff Writer

Any business owner — whether the business is conducted in a home or another location — is required to have a business license, said an employee of Springville City office.

Jo Evans said even people selling Avon or Amway need a business license.

People operating out of their home need a license because of the Home Occupation Ordinance, Evans said. "Anyone using their home for more than a business address and phone needs a Home Occupation Permit."

Business owners in Provo also need a business license, said Julie Jackson, a Provo licensing clerk.

"Some people don't know they need a license," Jackson said. When the city finds someone operating without a license, they try to get the business owner to come in and fill out an application before litigating.

Non-profit organizations need a license, even though there isn't a fee, said Brenda Leril of the Orem licensing office.

She said the price of a license depends on the manufacturing business's revenue. A new business determines revenue by projected profits. An established business goes by past profits.

She said businesses operating without a license will be given 30 days before being shut down.

Provo don't need a license from the city, but must register through the state, Jackson said. To learn whether or not a license is needed, call the Provo city office at 379-6523.

Bridge said reasons for people failing to obtain a city license include not realizing a license is needed and forgetting to register.

BYU forms new club for Eagle Scouts

Universe Services

The Department of Recreation Management and Youth Leadership has announced the formation of a new club on campus — the BYU Eagle Scout Club.

The Boy Scouts of America have designated 1990 as "The Year of the Eagle," and the new club was established to identify all BYU faculty and students who are Eagle Scouts.

All Eagle Scouts are welcome to join the club which boasts the slogan, "the largest Eagle's nest in the United States."

A major goal of the club is to provide opportunities for leadership and re-invest into the lives of others what scouting invested in the Eagle Scouts.

The club will also provide opportunities to hear from leaders of the community, state and nation on how scouting influenced their lives and careers.

Further details and other information will be given at the club's first meeting on March 13, at 7:30 p.m. in 267 RB.

For questions or more information contact Rulon Skinner at 378-2118 or Maj. Roy Caldwell at 378-3603.

BYU student runs across U.S.

By KRISTA L. KARONY
Universe Staff Writer

BYU student and former world-class runner James Kiprotich Arap Mibey, casually dressed in a shirt and sport coat, extended his hand and a warm smile.

It was easy to see how this man, while running 4,500 miles from one coast of the United States to the other, also ran his way into the hearts of hundreds of Americans.

In June 1985, Mibey began his five-month run across the United States to express the gratitude of the African people to Americans for "giving from the heart" to help famine and drought victims.

Mibey said that during his "Thanks America Run," he was able to meet and talk with mayors, governors, athletes, school students and celebrities.

Among these were Lionel Ritchie, Muhammad Ali and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

"I wanted to see America," as well as say thank you, Mibey said. Mibey financed the trip himself, with the exception of a few donations. He was also accompanied by a friend, who drove beside him.

Mibey said he is now working on his second bachelor's degree at BYU, in international relations. His first degree was in humanities.

He graduates in April, and his goal is to return to the United States as an ambassador from Kenya.

Mibey said he learned about BYU when he was competing on the running circuit in Europe.

His European running friends said BYU was a good institution academically, and encouraged him to come here.

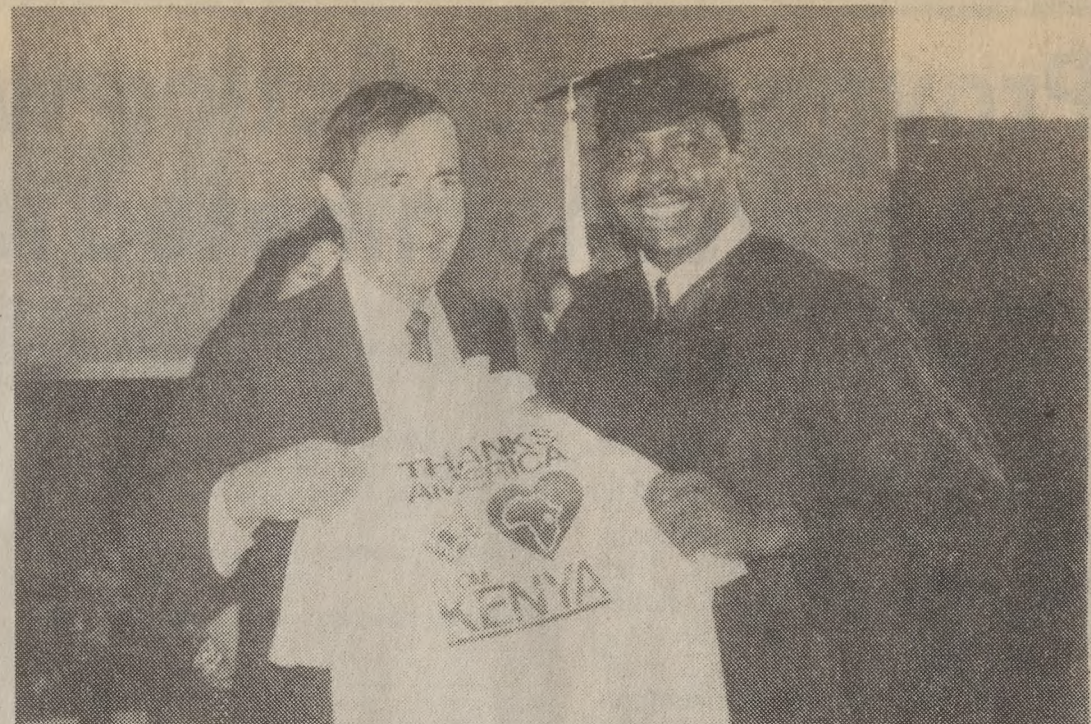

Mibey first came to BYU in 1983. He came on a track and field scholarship, but had to quit running competitively when he was injured.

Mibey said he just returned to BYU last May, after taking a break from school to do the "Thanks America Run."

Also, his mother was ill, so he had to return to Kenya to see her.

"Before she dies, I want her to see me doing something for the people," he said.

Always optimistic, Mibey said one of his goals is to jog with President Bush.

Honor code, standards attract Pakistani to BYU

By CAROL YAGER
Universe Staff Writer

A BYU student from Karachi, Pakistan, chose to attend BYU because it started with the letter "B."

Baber Amin, 20, majoring in electrical engineering, said he went through an alphabetical listing of U.S. colleges and universities. "I started at the top of the list and BYU was one of the first universities I read about," said Amin.

"Actually, after reading BYU's Honor Code, I decided BYU would be best place to attend because its existing culture is similar to Pakistan's," he said.

Irfan Qurashi, 26, majoring in computer science, is also from Pakistan. Qurashi came to BYU because he did not like the school system in Pakistan and because he wanted to learn firsthand about life in the United States.

"As long as people don't talk about religion I have seemed to adjust fine," said Qurashi. "People here are friendly, however, it is hard when they try to get you to go to church." Qurashi is Moslem.

Qurashi enjoyed taking a class on The Book of Mormon. Another Testament of Jesus Christ, but it was difficult because he kept comparing it to the Koran. "I expected the Book of Mormon to be more inspirational like the Koran," said Qurashi. "It seems like a lot of the Book of Mormon was written by different people giving their interpretations of history, but I think it is a good book."

Sherri Shek, 21, a senior from Hong Kong, is president of BYU's International Club.

When Shek came to BYU, she said she noticed a need for a combined international club.

"BYU has numerous clubs for international students, but they are all separate," said Shek. "I wanted to see these activities combined and see more interaction among international students."

BYU's international students bring with them individual experiences and ideas. BYU's International Week is designed to celebrate and recognize those differences. More than 30 countries are represented by booths in the ELWC Garden Court.
